

JACKY ROBINSON

Vaughan Williams notes that this was a dancing song? Was it a form of East Anglian Step Dance?

All the perils and dangers of the waves is past
The ship at Portsmouth has arrived
At last the sails all furled and the anchors cast
And the happiest of the crew is Jacky Robinson

Jack met with a man and said I say
Perhaps you may know the one
Polly Gray she's somewhere hereabouts
The man did say I do not indeed
To Jacky Robinson

Jacky Robinson (Dancing song)

Allegro

(i) All the perils and dangers of the waves is past the ship at Portsmouth has ar-
(ii) Jack met with a man and said "I say, perhaps you may know one
-rived at last the sails all furled and the an - chors cast and the Polly Gray she's somewhere hereabouts" the man did say "I happiest of the crew is Jacky Robinson do not indeed" to Jacky Robinson

For text see Folksongs of the Northeast G Greig